From imusti : 2016 Standard Catalog of World Coins 2001-Date before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 2016 Standard Catalog of World Coins 2001-Date:

On the first page of the catalogue the only change is a larger map of Afghanistan. Everything else is the same. Not a trace of new circulating magnetic 10 leke (2009) and 20 leke (2012) coins even though 2012 commemoratives have been added. Algeria? Commemorative 200 dinars 2012 missing. Andorra? Up to 2013, not a trace of 2014 euro issue. Aruba? No 2014 new circulating coins with the new king. Azerbaijan listing includes all coins issued up to 2006. Brazil starts with a gold 10 reis (actually, it should be reais), lower denominations follow. Guatemala misses some 2010 coins. Kazakhstan ends in 2011. Lithuania does not include 25 litu denomination. Norway ends in 2012. Pakistan 25 paisa is actually 25 rupees. As if to balance missing coins the editors generously threw in some coins not heard of anywhere else such as Morocco 5 santimat 2011 or Morocco 25 centimes (???) 2002. Some coins are listed twice e.g. Iran #1276 (or #1278) and 1277 (or #1279). Some prices are out of touch with reality (Monaco 2 euro #195 2011 and #200 2013 are available at 10% of current Krause prices, not a surprise as the mintages exceed one million of each). I won't bore you with further examples but it seems to me that there is something wrong in the listings of every country. Some years ago I realised that Krause is in trouble when the 20th century edition I bought was printed without several chapters (including such a minor country as Spain...) which I later received by e-mail. It has only gotten worse. This catalogue is simply not ready for publication, information which can be easily obtained on the Internet is missing. The information can probably be also obtained directly from mints or banks - why wasn't it? Wasn't there enough people in the publishing house to write the necessary e-mails? I can't tell. What I can do is this: give you a piece of advice. If you already have 2014 or 2015 edition, don't bother buying the 2016 one. It is not worth the price. However, if you collect world coins and you haven't got a catalogue yet, there is no better one on the market. I am very sad to admit it - with Krause lowering its standards the world have just gotten a little worse. My advice to the editors is this - don't publish another edition until you are certain you are ready!

Good night, the catalog really has many flaws in ...By GIOVANNI ADDIVINOLA Good night, the catalog really has many flaws in the press there are parts that are not read, they are stained the page, the prices of currencies do not match the columns where they should go, you have blank pages in order is defective this issue, really I've never done them a claim but this time I think I should refund my money to my credit card, catalog price plus freight to pay for it to arrive faster, or in the worst case reintegrármelo with a gift card to buy another article in this decision is you. regards 2016 Standard Catalog of World Coins 2001-Date
